Thousands Face Death In Korea

Two ROK Divisions Trapped Behind Snowslides, Drifts In Punchbowl Area

SEOUL (Saturday) (INS)—Several thousand South Korean soldiers faced the danger of possible death from starvation and bitter cold today as they anxiously awaited U.S. and ROK Army rescue teams to break through ten-foot high snow barriers on the East Korean front.

ROK Army Headquarters announced at least 80 soldiers have already perished—most of them crushed under huge snowslides. The death toll was expected to rise steeply before the worst blizzard in Korean history blows over.

In addition, 54 ROK Army men were listed injured and at least 25 missing in the rugged, mountainous sector of the truce-stilled front, just above the 38th Parallel.

Two full ROK divisions were cut off from supplies in the area east of the Punchbowl, scene of some of the bloodiest fighting of the Korean War. The ROK Army said that because of disrupted communications, accurate reports could not be immediately compiled.

Ten U.S. Army helicopters were flying in food and snow shovels to the soldiers. Several more "choppers" stood by on call. However there was no vehicular transportation available in the area, making it almost impossible for the snowbound troops to reach the supplies.

Most of the trapped men were out of sight of Army helicopter rescue teams. Their snow-covered shelters are built in the sides of the mountains.

President Syngman Rhee issued an emergency order to all ROK government agencies to establish "speedy assessment of loss of life and property damage, and set up fast relief plans for those people in the snow-stricken area."

The 81-year-old ROK leader assured his people that the South Korean and the U.S. armies were working jointly to rescue the marooned troops.

Two U.S. Air Force Boxcars from Japan made successful drops of 2,000 gallons of gasoline Friday. The fuel was being used by the rescue "whirlbirds."

Grand Island Man Killed In Collision

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (P)—Hudson H. Bruner, 47, Grand Island was killed late Friday afternoon when his car and one driven by Albert C. Pallick Jr., 30, collided at an intersection in West Grand Island. Pallick was not injured.

County Attorney W. T. Blackburn said Pallick, a partially-paralyzed World War II veteran, was driving a specially equipped car.

Blackburn said Pallick tried to apply the brakes to avoid a collision but his foot slipped and hit the accelerator.

Bruner is survived by his widow and two children.

Neff Inquiry Reopened; Iowa Conflict Unsettled

...Two New Witnesses Called By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Senate committee decided late Friday to make one more attempt to establish whether lawyer-lobbyist John M. Neff of Lexington, Neb., offered campaign funds for the use of Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia.).

It announced it would re-open its investigation Monday to hear two more witnesses, Mrs. Robert K. Goodwin of Des Moines, wife of Iowa's Republican National Committeeman, and Wendell Edson, a Storm Lake, Iowa, lawyer.

NEBRASKAN EVANS

Committeeman Goodwin said Neff offered donations on two occasions and was turned down. Neff denied he made an offer.

The committee ended its public hearings earlier Friday and Charles W. Steadman, committee counsel, had announced the question of the campaign money would have to be resolved by the Justice Department. The department has a transcript of the conflicting testimony to help it decide whether any perjury charges should be brought.

Signals Changed
Signals were changed, however, at a closed meeting of the committee Friday afternoon. Steadman said subpoenas had been issued for Mrs. Goodwin and Edson, and that Neff himself might be asked to testify again.

Steadman said Mrs. Goodwin would be asked about a disputed telephone conversation her husband had with Ivan D. Evans of Broken Bow, Neb., Neff's attorney, on Feb. 19. He said Mrs. Goodwin listened to the conversation on an extension line.

The four-man committee was appointed by the Senate last month to look into the circumstances surrounding an offer by Neff to contribute $2,500 to the re-election campaign of Sen. Case (R-SD).

'Full, Fair, Complete'
Sen. George (D-Ga.), the chairman said he considered the inquiry to have been "full, fair and complete."

George also said he was satisfied the committee had gotten "all of the facts in the matter we were empowered to inquire into"—that is, the 25 $100 bills offered Case during the Senate's debate on the natural gas bill and rejected by him.

Claims 2 Visits
It was told by Robert K. Goodwin, GOP National Committeeman for Iowa, that Neff had visited him twice last November, offering him $2,500 for the campaign of Sen. Hickenlooper on the first trip and $1,000 on a return visit.

Neff, who has represented the interests of the Superior Oil Co. of California, denied offering Goodwin any money and swore he had visited him only once.

Neff favored passage of the gas bill, a measure to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal price regulation.

The Senate inquiry was aimed at finding out whether any attempt had been made to influence Case's vote. Both Neff and the senator testified there were no strings attached to the money.

In the final hours of the inquiry Friday, Ivan D. Evans, Neff's attorney, offered three affidavits in an effort to refute Goodwin's testimony.

The affidavits were signed by Evans, his son and law partner, John H. Evans, and Paul J. Gerdes, of Lexington, Neff's law partner. All challenged details of Goodwin's testimony.

Idaho Town Is Hit

Villagers Are Rescued By Neighbors

WALLACE, Ida. (AP) — Tons of snow crashed down a mountainside into a string of 20 frame houses early Friday, killed a 10-year-old boy and trapped 18 other persons in their beds.

One woman with a baby in her arms nearly suffocated before she was dug out at the little village of Mace, five miles north of here.

The roaring avalanche, touched off by wind and rain in Burke Canyon, snapped house timbers like match sticks in the darkness at 1 a.m. and completely covered five homes with a heavy layer of snow.

Shoved 35 Feet
The John Spencer house was knocked 35 feet into Canyon Creek. In a second-story bedroom amid water and debris, searchers found the pajama-clad body of Timmy Spencer 10.

Police said it was a miracle more weren't killed or seriously injured by the slide. All the survivors were released from the hospital after minor treatment and a checkup.

The snow that cascaded down Mammoth Mountain knocked out 18 utility poles and blocked roads. The slide was almost a half mile wide and snow was 20 feet deep in places when it settled.

Burke Canyon has been the scene of frequent slides. On Feb. 27, 1910, an avalanche killed 16 persons. Nearly all the men who live at Mace work in mines nearby.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Bell and their eight children were trapped and were dug out by neighbors.

Bell, 35; his wife, Cora, 31; and their children Louis 13, Preston 12, Elvius 10, Betty 8, Linda 6, Loretta 5, Freida 2, and Daniel 16 months were injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cork and their 9-month-old son were buried by the slide but were rescued quickly, treated and released from the hospital. Mrs. Steve Reasnor and her four daughters dug themselves out. They were treated for shock.

Stories From The Life Of Jesus

(The sixteenth chapter of The Star's Lenten series.)

By APRIL OUSLER ARMSTRONG
John the Baptist was in serious trouble.

John, the giant in animal skins, for months had been preaching to great crowds down by the Jordan. "Do penance!" he would shout. "The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

But John was not only scolding poor people for their sins. He wanted the whole world shining and good, to be ready for the Savior. And so John even dared to speak about the evils in the palace, and the sins of King Herod Antipas. King Herod had taken his brother's wife, Herodias, to live with him which was, of course, a sin. He even called her his Queen. John the Baptist thundered: "It is not lawful for him to have his brother's wife." King Herod, who thought himself important, grew angry when he heard the things John the Baptist was saying. But Queen Herodias, who thought she was even more important, grew angrier still. "Arrest that fool called John,"

Bandit Gets $188,000 In Precise Bank Holdup

2 Gunmen Kidnap Teller For Data: Unsuspecting Cop Watches Robbery

PORT CHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A painstaking bandit robbed a drive-in bank of $188,000 Friday after he and a companion kidnaped a woman teller and questioned her all night for data on the bank's layout.

A policeman in a squad car looked on benignly as a bank official—under the pistol of the bandit—carried the loot to a getaway car. The officer thought he was watching a routine transfer of funds.

Two men kidnaped slight, brunette Mrs. Mary Kostolos, a teller, at her home at 10 o'clock Thursday night. They had a working knowledge of the bank's routine which they filled in with all night grilling of the woman, a widow.

One of the men used Mrs. Kostolos' key to enter the County Trust Co. branch. Then he pressed into service other employees as they arrived one by one for work in the morning.

The second man didn't enter the bank. Police assumed he may have arranged for the getaway by car.

No Pursuit
As a climax, the bandit in the bank took almost every cent on the premises and sped away in a car, unmolested, unrecognized and without pursuit.

No shots were fired and no one was mistreated.

An alarm at the bank had been disconnected a few days ago. Police had complained it was being set off accidentally by electrical contract work going on in the bank. The bandit apparently knew the alarm was disconnected.

The bandit fled the bank in Mrs. Kostolos' car. She had been kept captive in the car for several hours. It was found abandoned at a parking lot some distance away. There, presumably, the second bandit had waited in another car. It was the nation's biggest bank holdup since last April's record $305,000 cash haul from a Chase Manhattan Branch in New York. It had the same precise touch, even to the kidnapping of an employee to gain entry.

Mrs. Kostolos, a 52-year-old widow and a bank employee since 1923, drove to her home Thursday night and got out to open her garage door.

"This man appeared," she recalled, "shoved a gun in my ribs and told me to get back into the front seat of the car. Another man jumped into the back seat. The first man drove, but I don't know where. They put a shawl over my face and I never did get to see the second man clearly."

"Once in the car I screamed for help but no one seemed to hear me."

Injured Construction Worker Still Critical
Ervin Olson, 21, of 4634 Bancroft, was reported still in critical condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Friday.

He suffered a crushed chest and head injuries when a wall on a building under construction collapsed plunging Olson two stories into the basement. Olson and three other workmen on the building at 710 No. 48th were injured when buried by the debris.

17 Aboard Plane Lost In Atlantic

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (P)—A crippled U.S. Air Force Globemaster with 17 men aboard was feared down in the North Atlantic 240 miles southwest of Keflavik airfield late Friday night.

The four-engine plane was en route from Keflavik to the United States.

An hour and 36 minutes after it left Keflavik the pilot reported two engines were out of order.

Search planes were dispatched from Keflavik air field but they reported no trace of the missing plane.

In New York, the Coast Guard quoted the Air Force to the effect that the plane had feathered three of its propellers.

The French ocean station vessel Mermoz was reported en route to the last reported position of the plane. The Coast Guard said the Mermoz was the only ship near the area.

One 'Most Wanted' Jailed Here; Other Once Reformatory Inmate Fame Undeserved, 'Just Trusty' Says Green

By AL EDEE
Star Staff Writer

"I don't know why the FBI put me on the Ten Most Wanted List," Husky Thurman Green declared Friday night in his city jail cell here. "I was just a trusty at Walla Walla prison."

The FBI wanted flyer on Green states, "May be armed and should be considered extremely dangerous. Escaped custody twice, once by assaulting a guard. Reportedly stated he will attempt to kill any officers arresting him."

The 35-year-old Walla Walla prison escapee spent his night in the federal cell at the city jail. He is en route back to the state of Washington in the custody of U.S. Marshal Noah Riley after two years of freedom.

He faces probable charges of unlawful flight to avoid confinement for a 20-year armed robbery sentence he was serving since 1950. In addition he's wanted for a Dyer Act violation—interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

Bum Rap

"The Dyer Act charge is a bum rap," Green, a man of at least 12 aliases, said "I didn't do it." Green said he escaped the prison by going under the stockade fence with two other men.

"I didn't know till I was picked up in Nashville that the other two had been caught," he said.

The agents said authorities caught them an hour after they left me," Green said. He had been in hiding for two years.

Green was slightly disgruntled over newspaper reports concern-

Green had two close calls with the FBI in New York and Huntington, Long Island, N.Y. His "sensitivity" to federal agents, Green said, saved him.

Green says "I'm a changed man. I'm married now and don't want to go back to crime. I want to serve the rest of my term."

Started Criminal Career Here As Thief

WASHINGTON — The FBI announced Friday the arrest of Palmer Julius Morset, 49, one of its "Ten Most Wanted" fugitives, who began his criminal career as a horse thief in Nebraska in 1922.

Morset, using the alias "Thomas F. Rooney," was apprehended in Indianapolis.

At the age of 16 Morset was sentenced from Richardson County for a one-year term in the State Reformatory for horse stealing.

He was committed under the name of John Martin Peterson, the same name as his father's. Reformatory records show the name "Morset" as an alias.

After being released in July, 1924, he was jailed at Fremont for an undisclosed offense.

From 1928 to 1940 he was serving time in the Illinois State Prison at Joliet for armed robbery.

Morset and a companion were apprehended while attempting to escape after a robbery of a Chicago finance company in March, 1950. Released on bond, Morset failed to appear for trial and his bond was forfeited in March, 1951.

He has been residing in Indianapolis for the past three years and, according to FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, offered no resistance to arrest.

Hoover said Morset was unarmed and admitted his identity.

Morset was quoted as telling FBI agents: "I knew it was bound to happen. I am tired of running, and glad it is over."

Sen. Eastland Promoted In Face Of Protests

'Revolt' Attempt Fizzles

Mississippi Solon Replaces Kilgore

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday squelched an attempted revolt against its seniority tradition by approving the election of Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) as chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

The action came swiftly after Sen. Morse (D-Ore) and Lehman (D-NY) had objected that Eastland was disqualified by prejudice in civil rights matters. They cited Eastland's repeated criticism of the Supreme Court ruling against segregation in the public schools.

Their objections were shouted down when the Senate, by a voice vote and without a record roll call, accepted the Democratic Steering Committee's recommendation that Eastland succeed to the chairmanship left vacant by the death this week of Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa).

Custom Is Upheld
The Senate thus upheld its custom of filling committee chairmanships according to seniority, since Eastland was the next ranking Democrat on the group.

Protests came from the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and other organizations against elevating Eastland to what Morse called the "driver's seat" of a committee handling civil rights legislation and judicial appointments.

The 51-year-old Eastland, who has been in the Senate since 1941, is an unyielding foe of racial integration.

Publicity Firm Returns Fire At Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP)—T. W. Braun, president of a Los Angeles public relations firm, informed Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) Friday that he had served Democrats as well as Republicans "on a non-partisan and public service basis."

During debate on the farm bill Thursday, Humphrey criticized the Republican National Committee for hiring Braun & Co. as a consultant. Humphrey said its assignment was "to popularize" Secretary of Agriculture Benson and the GOP farm program.

Braun replied Friday with a statement to Humphrey in which he said he was "a consultant in the executive office of the President in 1950" on foreign economic problems. President Truman was in office then.

"In terms of solid assistance to American farmers, we are proud to match our record against political smears and character assassinations," Braun told the senator.

"For over 20 years one of our principal activities has been in the field of increasing sales and consumption of farm products, especially those in surplus."

Presbyterian Women In The Pulpit Voted

The Presbyterian Church, USA, has approved a proposal to ordain women ministers in the church, the office of its General Assembly at Philadelphia, Pa., announced.

Adoption of the proposal was assured after a majority of the church's presbyteries voted in favor of the motion. The Nebraska City presbytery approved the proposal earlier this year.

Dr. C. Vin White, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, was the chairman of a special committee which recommended that the proposal be sent to the various presbyteries for a vote.

The proposal will be incorporated into the church constitution at the general assembly meeting May 24-30.

Two earlier attempts to permit ordination of women ministers failed to gain approval.

ICC Okays 6% Railroad Freight Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday announced it will permit the railroads to advance freight rates generally by 6 per cent, effective next Wednesday, March 7.

The increase will be subject to review by the commission, under a railroad pledge that refunds will be made to freight users if the ICC finds this rate hike not justified.

The railroads asked for the increase to become effective without a hearing, but with the rise subject to the ICC review.

In authorizing a 6 per cent increase, the commission listed many commodities for "hold down" under which their rates will go up less than 6 per cent.

The railroads had proposed a straight 7 per cent increase, to be applied across the board to every shipment. This plan was estimated to involve an increase for shippers of more than a half billion dollars a year.

The railroads contended additional revenue was essential, and required immediately, to cover costs of recent railroad wage increases and higher materials prices.

Lincoln officials of the Burlington, Rock Island, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads said they have received no word concerning the rate increase.

Dissolution Clause Issue Stalls Authority Creation

City Passes Amendment

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The City Council, in a special meeting, has given approval to the amendment of one section of the articles of incorporation for creation of a City-County Building Authority dealing with its dissolution.

The substitution, proposed by Mayor Clark Jeary and given unanimous Council approval, calls for dissolution of the Authority only by joint approval of both the city and county. Such action by the two parties could only be taken prior to approval by the voters of any bonds for construction of the joint building.

As approved by the County Commissioners, the articles toll automatic death of the Authority in either of two events:

1. That a bond issue for construction purposes is placed on the ballot and defeated.
2. If the Authority would fail to submit such a bond issue to the voters within one year.

Council members expressed the view that the one-year limit does not give the Authority the flexibility it might need. It is conceivable, they said, that the Authority might find it all but impossible to have a bond issue ready to submit within one year.

It was pointed out by Jeary that existence of the Authority, even after a bond issue might have been voted down, would not prevent the county from going ahead with building plans of their own if they so desired.

If a bond issue for the building were turned down this summer, Jeary said, it would not mean the people did not want a joint building but that they objected to it at this particular time.

Thus, he reasoned, the Authority could again be used if a second submission of the proposal to the

Differences Can Be Ironed

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Board Chairman Russell Brehm was "confident" Friday that differences over the proposed articles of incorporation for the City-County Building Authority "can be ironed out soon."

Brehm made this statement following a conference with Lincoln Mayor Clark Jeary and later with Commissioners Del Lienemann and Chris Kuhner.

As proposed by the county, one article would dissolve the Authority upon failure of the bond issue to be approved by the voters or failure of the Authority to put the issue on the ballot within one year.

The city's thinking on any dissolution of the Authority has been in terms of joint action by the city and county.

Brehm, declined to disclose details of his talks with Jeary, but said: "I don't think the city and county are too far apart on a dissolution clause. I think it will be ironed out soon without too much difficulty."

"I have every confidence in the mayor and council members and the commissioners to sit down and work things out," Brehm said.

Brehm declined to say whether the two bodies would meet together or when, but said he expected to confer again with Mayor Jeary later Friday night.

voters was decided upon at a later date.

The city's substitution was presented later to County Commission Chairman Russell Brehm who will forward it to the county board.

Should the parties concerned be unable to reach agreement on the article in question, a deadlock would result to stop establishment of the Authority.

Jeary stated he did not feel the city and county were yet at the point of a deadlock.

LT&T Plans Added Exchange For Northeast Lincoln Area

... Seven-Digit Number Seen In '2 Or 3 Years'

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company plans to add a new exchange for northeast Lincoln early next year, A. B. Waters, district commercial manager, announced Friday.

Equipment for the new "8" exchange will be installed at the present "6" office exchange building at 49th and Huntington.

Construction was started March 1 on an addition to that building and major additions also will be made to the "6" exchange equipment, Waters said.

To Serve 20,000

That exchange will be able to serve 20,000 telephones, about double its present capacity, when the project is complete, Waters stated.

The building, which is 47 feet wide, will be lengthened from 86 to 121 feet. A lot to the west, which LT&T purchased for further expansion, will be used now for parking.

LT&T also has purchased a plot near 84th and O, one mile east of Veterans Hospital, to be used initially for a long distance repeater (amplifier) station.

Future plans call for installation of an exchange for local service there.

LT&T will spend more than $2½ million in 1956 for expansion and improvements, including new cable facilities.

Lincoln telephone numbers will be increased to seven digits, possibly within the next two or three years, Waters said.

This will be required to accommodate needs for local service, he said, and it is a requirement for future dialing of long distance calls by customers.

Long Distance Dialing

Eventually, he said, every phone number in the United States will have seven digits for long distance dialing.

For local calls, the digits will be two letters and five numbers.

The 55,224 telephones in Lincoln, not including more than 1,000 at the Lincoln Air Force Base, represents a 76 per cent increase in the past 10 years.

Last year Lincoln had a net gain of 3,732 telephones.

Clements Claims GOP Trying For Fewer Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clements (D-Ky) said Friday the basic theory underlying the Eisenhower's farm program is that "there are too many farmers."

Asserting the Agriculture Department has tried "to reduce the surplus of farmers by reducing the prospects of making a living from farming," Clements said:

"From the outset, this administration has looked upon the farmer as public enemy No. 1 and it is certainly not surprising that this feeling is reciprocated."

Clements, the assistant Democratic floor leader, addressed the Senate in debate on general farm legislation due to be voted on next Thursday. He urged a return to 90 per cent support prices in place of the lower, variable support system enacted under the present administration.

Clements said the administration favors farms being run as "big business" and he said the process of eliminating the small independent farmer can best be hastened by flexible price supports, the kind now in effect.

"In reality, what is meant by that term," he said, "is an open invitation to vicious price-cutting—a return to the law of the jungle in which he small perish and the big and the strong survive."

Smoke, Explosions Draw Crowd At Plant Fire

OMAHA (AP) — Rolling smoke and a series of explosions brought a crowd racing to Sixth and Harney Streets Friday evening to watch a blaze that destroyed a chemical storage shed at the Aaron Ferrer and Sons plant location here. Cause of the fire was not determined. Financial loss was said to be small.

Old Folks Backed By House Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee struck a double blow Friday for the nation's old folks.

It directed the Civil Service Commission to let federal employees keep working beyond the age of 70 if they are able and willing, and told the Department of Welfare to promptly start working on "problems of the aging."

The recommendations of the 50-man committee are subject to approval of the House next week, but there was little doubt that the House would go along.

They were embodied in separate bills appropriating $8,736,508.041 to finance 24 federal agencies during the fiscal year starting July 1. The total is $154,590,641 more than President Eisenhower requested.

The committee is headed by Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), who will be 77 on April 11. Its senior Republican member is John Taber of New York, who will be 76 on May 5.

West Point Man Killed; One Hurt

NORFOLK—Walter J. Roberts, 20, of West Point, Neb., was killed Friday night in a one car highway collision two and two-tenths miles north of Lyons on U.S. 77.

Roberts was a passenger in a car driven by Henry S. Westerman, 27, also of West Point. Westerman suffered bruises and was released from the hospital.

According to the State Highway Patrol Westerman lost control of his car and the car rolled over. Roberts was thrown out of the southbound car.

Plans Made For Final Draft Of Colorado River Bill

Saturday, March 3, 1956 THE LINCOLN STAR 3
Shop Daily 9:30 to 5:30 Thursday 10 to 8:30

President May Get Measure By Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Senate and House interior committees Friday made plans for a conference early next week to draft a final version of the upper Colorado River project bill.

The Senate Friday named all five members of its reclamation subcommittee to meet with an equal number of House members to reconcile differences in the Senate and House versions.

Nebraska News

The House is expected to agree to the conference and formally name its conferees Monday.

The Senate passed a bill last year authorizing projects totaling $1,600,000,000 in Utah, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona. The House bill, passed Thursday, trimmed project authorizations to 760 million dollars.

Sen. Barrett (R-Wyo.) predicted that the Senate conferees would go along largely with the House bill and said "it should be on the President's desk sometime next week."

Before the administration-backed measure can go to the White House, both the House and Senate will have to pass the compromise bill worked out in conference.

Miller Among Conferees
The Senate conferees are Sens. Anderson (D-NM), Jackson (D-Wash.), O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), Millikin (R-Colo.) and Watkins (R-Utah).

House conferees are expected to include Reps. Engle (D-Calif.), Miller (R-Neb.) and Aspinall (D-Colo.).

Final enactment of the compromise bill will clear the way for the proposed submission of a request to Congress for 8 million dollars to start construction during the 12 months beginning July 1.

The President's budget, submitted to Congress in January, allowed for the 8 million dollar appropriation should the authorization bill be passed.

Reclamation bureau officials said the money probably would be used during the remainder of this year to complete final designs for Glen Canyon Dam in Arizona and possibly other structures.

Glen Canyon Dam is expected to be one of the first structures undertaken. It will be required to store water for delivery to the lower basin and Mexico in accordance with the Colorado River compact of 1922 and the Mexican water treaty.

Youth Charged With Burglarizing Mason City Bank

OMAHA (AP) — Vance William Heideman, 21, who is in custody in Houston, Tex., has been charged with burglarizing the Mason City Bank at Mason City, Neb., Joseph Thornton, agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, said Friday.

The charge, Thornton said, was filed before U.S. Commissioner Horace Crosby of North Platte. The agent added that the FBI had evidence that Heideman robbed the bank on or about Feb. 1.

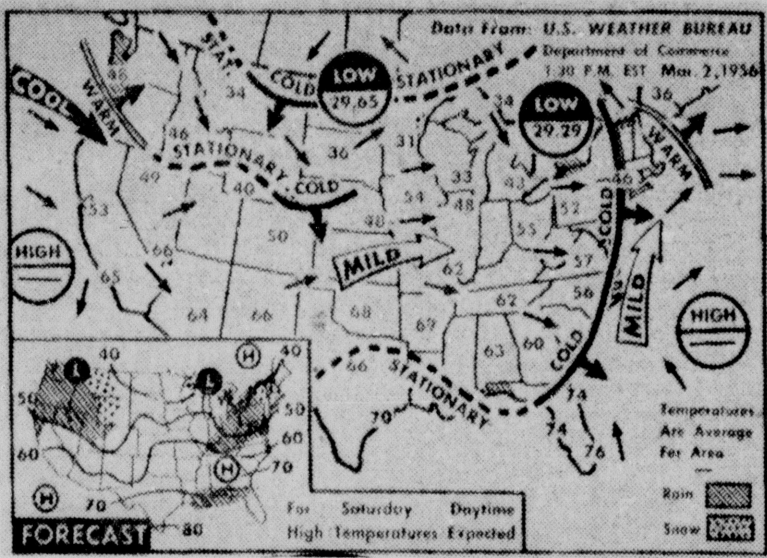

Thornton said a complaint of concealing information on a felony also had been made against Charles Turner, 23, of Mason City. He added that the FBI was aided in the investigation by Sheriff R. G. Fox of Broken Bow and Sheriff V. J. Beran of Ord.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Dean Wallace of Lincoln said approximately $25 in change and small bills was obtained from the bank's stamp drawer and also a revolver.

Entrance to the bank building was apparently forced through a rear window to a wash room, Wallace said.

Turner is the son of Joe R. Turner, a cashier at the Mason City bank, Wallace said.

Both the accused men have records at the Nebraska Reformatory. Turner was sentenced to 36 to 42 months at the institution in 1951 for feloniously entering a building in Dawson County and Heideman was sentenced in 1952 to two years for feloniously entering a building in Douglas County. Both were discharged in 1954.

Woman Killed During Family Disagreement

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP) — A Scottsbluff woman was shot to death Friday morning in what officials said apparently was the climax of a family argument.

She was Mrs. Molly Temple, 52, County Attorney Byron Johnson said he was told her husband, Fred, 54, fired the shot with a .38 pistol. The bullet struck Mrs. Temple in the body.

Johnson said Temple later wounded himself in the head and shot Mrs. Temple's father, Conrad Hoff, Sr., 77, in the arm. Temple and Hoff are hospitalized in undetermined condition.

Kearney Pair Win Nebraska Elks Contest

OMAHA (AP) — John Michael Thomas and Jean Ann Nelson, both of Kearney High School, were announced Friday as winners of the first prizes of $400 each in the Nebraska Elks Assn., "Most Valuable Student" contest.

W. W. Westrand, Omaha, chairman of the Youth Activities Committee of the state association, said the two winners selected chiefly on the basis of scholarship and citizenship, will represent Nebraska in the national Elks competition.

The judges awarded a plaque to the Lincoln Elks Lodge No. 80 for having the best youth program in the state.

Other winners in the "most Valuable Student" competition: Second prize, $250, Sonja May Ruckl, Omaha North High School; 3rd prize, $150, William Douglas Kuester, Norfolk High School. One hundred dollar awards went to each of four district winners: Rena LaVerne Lee, Scottsbluff High School; Sonya Ann Huff, Nebraska City High School; Marilyn Jean Meyers, McCook High School; and May Elizabeth Walters, Northeast High School, Lincoln.

In addition to the "most Valuable Student" contest, awards were given in a state-wide "leadership" contest. The winners in this category were: boys' division—1st place, $100 bond, Ned G. Patrick II, Omaha Benson high school; 2nd, $50 bond, Wesley Berry Jr., Sidney High School; girls' division—1st place, $100 bond, Margaret Marshall, Lincoln Northeast High School; 2nd place, $50 bond, Sharon Sievers, Scottsbluff High School.

Hastings Pair Charged In Beating Case

CLAY CENTER, Neb. — Two Hastings men have been charged in the beating of Henry Green, 70, Fairfield night watchman, and for burglarizing two Fairfield business establishments.

County Attorney S. W. Moger said Perry O. Larkin Jr., 22, has been charged with assault with intent to do great bodily injury, breaking and entering and petty larceny.

Breaking and entering and petty larceny charges face Peter J. Haave, 29.

The pair were arrested by Hastings police and gave signed statements admitting the incidents to Police Chief George Maul, Captain John Holmes, Clay County Sheriff Henry Hoyt and Moger.

Green was badly beaten with a tire iron and left lying in the alley, authorities said. He is in a Hastings hospital with a skull fracture and broken collarbone.

Officials said Green was beaten when he attempted to stop the men, who had entered Stephens Market, where about $10 was taken, and the Evans Pool Hall.

Judge Pollock Suggested For Federal Post

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Thirty-one members of the Ninth Judicial District Bar Assn., in a special meeting here adopted a resolution requesting the appointment of Judge Fay H. Pollock of Stanton as federal district judge succeeding the late James A. Donohoe.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to U.S. Senators Curtis and Hruska, Republican national committeeman Abel V. Shotwell of Omaha and Mrs. Edna Basten Donald, Grand Island, national committeewoman.

The resolution said in part that Judge Pollock's record in the District Court "demonstrates that his appointment as a federal judge will add to the respect of the people for the courts."

Barber's Death Believed Due To Accidental Shot

LINCOLN STAR SPECIAL

MINDEN, Neb. — Authorities located the body of Tom Osterbuhr, 63-year-old Minden barber, south-east of Minden near an empty farmhouse.

Death was due to bullet wounds from a .12 gauge single barrel shotgun, according to County Sheriff Lyle Olsen.

It is believed that the death was accidental, the sheriff said, as it appeared Osterbuhr's gun was discharged after he stumbled while apparently hunting near a bunch of trees.

Osterbuhr's car was found parked on the road not far from his body, Sheriff Olsen declared.

The sheriff said Mrs. Osterbuhr reported her husband missing when he failed to return after he told her he planned to take a ride. Osterbuhr was a longtime Minden resident.

Demurrer In Rapp's Behalf Is Overruled

WILBER, Neb. (AP) — District Judge Stanley Bartos has overruled a demurrer filed in Saline County District Court here in behalf of William F. Rapp, an employee of the State Health Department, accused of putting poisonous matter into the Big Blue River.

Rapp allegedly was experimenting with mosquito extermination at the Crete disposal plant when he was accused of putting matter into the river which is harmful to the fish. The charge was filed last October.

Clarence Kunc, attorney for Rapp, had alleged that the section under which Rapp was charged was void as a penal statute under the due process clause of the constitution of the state and of the United States, and that the bill under which it was passed was not correctly titled.

Judge Bartos had taken the demurrer under advisement and announced his ruling this week.

We All Join In

Governor Victor Anderson has proclaimed the coming week as one calling for more than usual thought and attention to the 4-H club movement in Nebraska.

His proclamation times in with the national observance of 4-H club week.

It calls to mind the fact that the 4-H movement has become a fixture in rural life. Nationally it is 42 years old. It can be said with a good deal of satisfaction that no criticism has ever arisen against this estimable institution on the grounds of its product, its citizenship and its actions. On the other hand it can be said that no other force of modern effort has contributed equally with it in winning youthful enthusiasm for agriculture while magnifying better social and service concepts.

The future leaders of the farming communities are to be found in the 4-H clubs. And the latter are the informal school rooms where neighborhood co-operation is fostered, where understanding by intelligent discussion is stressed, and where, always, idealistic and constantly improving agriculture has a happy home.

America worries about its juvenile delinquency. But it is to be comforted in the knowledge that it has the far greater number of its youth enthusiastically engaged in movements that lead to the highest order of citizenship. The 4-H movement is one of them.

All Nebraska shall take pleasure in joining the state's rural youth in the observance and appreciation of this coming, special week.

Bigger Than Expected Revenue

It was more probably a burgeoning oil industry than a legislative miscalculation that made initial tax payments almost twice as great as expected under Nebraska's new 2 per cent oil and gas severance tax.

Oil concerns paid the state $66,369.80 on their January operations. At that rate the state could benefit to the extent of more than $750,000 this year from the new tax.

When the legislature enacted the severance tax law a year ago it was estimated that it would produce an annual revenue of $400,000.

Such a return as the state received for January is occasion for Nebraskans to take a new look at their state as an oil producing area. It is bigger than many have thought. And there is increasing evidence that it is going to grow bigger as time goes on.

This will be good news to Nebraska education. The severance tax revenue goes into the permanent school fund for investment. The earnings from the investment under the law are distributable to the public schools on an attendance basis.

The wisdom of fund investment and distribution on the basis of annual earnings is readily apparent. In the long range view the constantly increasing amount of capital investment means a steadily increasing contribution to education to such an extent that its ultimate effects on educational support will become a major factor.

Three Is A Crowd

When a Nebraska contemporary noted that the House Agriculture Committee had approved legislation authorizing the Department of Agriculture to go into the business of building big dams, it threatened to see red.

"If this bill becomes law, the nation will have three big-dam-building agencies. The Army Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation already are competitors in that field."

It would be so much better all the way around if this Nebraska publication instead of letting its pulse rise, indulged itself in one big hearty belly laugh.

"The Department of Agriculture," it recalls, "got into the dam-building field through its activity in soil conservation on a watershed basis. But the Hope-Aiken law limited it to dams that impounded 5,000 acre-feet of water or less. Under the proposed amendments, the size limit would be taken off. The section which limits the department of 'agricultural phases' of water use and conservation projects also would be repealed. The amendments would let the Department of Agriculture build multiple-purpose dams for just about any purpose."

That is wrong, of course, terribly wrong. There is about as much need for a third agency in the big-dam-building business as the individual would have for five red noses, all running freely at one time.

And the Nebraska contemporary merely goes back to history when it says this:

"The department got into the dam-building act in the first place by contending that large structures are not necessary to control floods. Small dams on watershed headwaters and tributaries, it argued, would be more effective and cost less to build. Congress then gave it authority to build small dams in a number of pilot watersheds to show what it could do. Evidently that concession merely whetted the bureaucratic appetite for power."

That, dear readers, is the truth, a whang-dang lot of truth but not all the truth, by any means. Fact is, the agricultural boys got out and got themselves a fancy gadget that even in years of excessive moisture actually stood little chance of performing a real job and in years of drought, sadly was a joke, a tormenting joke.

But Cliff Hope, fine gentleman that he is, an honest and conscientious legislator, had one weakness in the law that bears his name along with Sen. Aiken's. Natural reservoirs on streams simply do not come naturally on the basis of 5,000 acre-feet of storage. If a dam is intelligently built, the storage it provides is determined 100 per cent by the topography or the storage capacity of the reservoir area. That is as it should be, but wasn't in the original act.

No, your Uncle Sammy does not need three big-dam-building agencies. In building dams as in love, it should not be forgotten that two's company, and three's a crowd.

Editorial Of The Day

A Small Customer

(From The Denver Post)

Those who are trying to give the impression that American allies are shipping large quantities of machine tools and other war potential goods to Communist countries should take a look at the latest report of John B. Hollister, director of the International Co-operation Administration.

In the first half of 1954, before the revision of the embargo list, the 15 countries that are parties to the embargo procedure shipped $373 million worth of goods to Russia and her European satellites. That was a whopping increase of 90 per cent over the shipments made in the first half of 1953.

But in the first half of 1955, after revision, total shipments to the Soviet bloc countries totaled $411 million—a relatively modest gain of only 10 per cent over the first half of 1954.

It seems obvious that the revision did not result in any tremendous rush by the Communists into free world markets.

The principal conclusions of the report are that Communists, as always, are trying to be self-sufficient; that they are not the potential "good customers" they say they are when wooing other countries; that those who hope to get rich by trading with Communists are deluding themselves; that Communists will increase their purchases of "heavy goods," such as copper wire, if given the opportunity, even at the cost of reducing their purchases of "soft" goods.

Boredom Was An Influence On Ike

WASHINGTON — Biggest backstage political hassle since Ike passed out the word has been over who would be his running mate.

Actually the hassle began before Ike gave the word, as reported in this column on Feb. 3, but it has become more intense today.

Originally there were two camps — pro and con Dick Nixon. Today there seems to be one big camp against Nixon, with only one man in the other camp for Nixon. That one man, however, has more weight than all the others — Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As long as he favors Nixon, and as long as he is running, Nixon will remain on the ticket.

However, the forces on the other side are considerable. They were first led by Gen. Lucius Clay, former commander of the U. S. forces in Germany, now head of Continental Can. Lined up with Clay has been ex-Gov. Tom Dewey, and ex-Marshall-Plan Administrator Paul Hoffman. These are among Ike's closest friends; are sometimes called his New York brain trust.

More recently, some of the cabinet members who like Nixon and still are for him personally have turned against him politically. They include such men as Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who has always befriended Nixon, Attorney General Brownell, and even GOP Chairman Len Hall.

Hall is publicly emphatic that Nixon should be on the ticket. But privately, all these White House intimates know that the American people, come next November, will be voting as President for the vice president as the much. And they know that Nixon, with all his charm, all his skill, all his trained television techniques, has made a lot of enemies, gathered a lot of political barnacles during his brief career. They know that with Nixon there is no middle course, people either like him or dislike him.

So the emphatic consensus among the men who put the heat on Ike to run is: "Thumbs down on Dick."

THEY SOLD IKE

There was no question but that President Eisenhower at one time had definitely and categorically decided not to run again. He had even shied away from running before his heart attack, and the first weeks following the attack drove all thought of running again out of his mind.

His change of mind was accomplished by one of the greatest sales jobs ever accomplished in political history.

It was put across by a small group of White House friends and advisers, part of it carefully planned, part of it impromptu. They weren't quite sure up until the trip to Thomasville, Ga., that they had succeeded. Even now there could be a change before the convention.

The first salesman to get into action was James Hagerty, the White House press secretary, who has become quite close to Eisenhower and who flew out to Denver immediately after the heart attack. One of Hagerty's first moves was to work with Dr. Paul D. White, the talkative Boston heart specialist, to make sure he talked only with Hagerty at his side. Once, when Dr. White made a statement in Boston voicing pessimism over Eisenhower's ability to run again, White immediately heard from Hagerty. After that he spoke only with Hagerty present.

Second salesman was the astute Len Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee. He was among the first to reverse the political despair which immediately settled over Republicans by advising a wait-and-see policy. Ike, he cheered, might well run again. About the same time, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, attorney General Brownell, Assistant President Sherman Adams devised the strategy to taking a certain amount of work out to Denver for signature; first, to restore confidence to the country; second, to restore confidence to Eisenhower.

BOREDOM AT GETTYSBURG

Eisenhower was terribly bored at Denver. This helped get him in the mood to run again. However, important matters were kept away from him on doctor's orders that nothing is more dangerous to a heart patient than excitement or the worry over making decisions. Hence, although Secretary Dulles flew to Denver to discuss the Geneva conference, none of the tough problems arising at Geneva were presented to the stricken president.

Later, at Gettysburg, Ike was also bored. This was one of the biggest factors helping the little group of salesmen who were determined to make him run again.

He had long been talking to Mamie about living a quiet life at Gettysburg. They had never had a home of their own. During 40 years in the army, they had lived in the Philippines, in Europe, in forts and army posts, never had a home.

But when the President got into that home, he found it confining, isolated, too far away from the active life he had so long been a part of. So, for the first time during his career as President he spent Christmas in the White House. He gave up the elaborate fixings arranged for his office at Gettysburg and came back to cold, bleak, cloudy Washington. The boredom of Gettysburg was too much. This was the biggest break the White House salesmen got.

Long before this, the salesmen had decided on the strategy of telling everyone that Ike was going to run again. They had nothing to base that on. But they figured that if they assumed he would run and kept telling themselves and the country this was a fact, the unanimity of this determination was bound to have its effect on the President.

It did — though not until quite late.

In Step With The Sower

Speculation at this time at the Nebraska State House and in other circles extends to the selection of a successor for the late Judge Donohoe of the United States District Court bench.

Thus far in the news columns, practically all comment has revolved around the names of those active in Republican party circles, rather than those of demonstrated ability to preside over the court, old observers suggest.

They concede that custom will be followed and that a follower of the GOP will be named by the present administration. This apparently finds no objectors. They also admit that it should be someone representing the northern half of the state, as did Judge Donohoe.

First thought instantly turned to Chief Justice Robert Simmons of the Supreme Court, who was born in Scottsbluff. But he was ruled out when it was recognized that he has since changed his address to Lincoln.

Again looking for Republicans in the north half of the state, with Omaha ruled out because it already has two judges of the Circuit Court, eyes immediately turned to a man who has seldom been mentioned—Judge Edward F. Carter of the Supreme Court.

Judge Carter was born in the wilds of Holt County at Middlebranch. He is on the sunny side of 60, which is, it is understood, has been fixed as the maximum age for the appointee, although the appointer, President Eisenhower, who is seeking re-election, has passed the 65-year mark.

The judge has always been a lover of the great West and after getting his degree in law with the Order of Coif at the University of Nebraska in 1919, began the practice of law at Bayard, a community north of the Platte.

This lasted but eight years, when he was elected judge of the 17th District Court. Three-fourths of this district is north of the Platte.

Stories From The Life Of Jesus

sin and I'll let you go today. But if you refuse—if you insist on saying my Queen and I are sinners—I shall have to have you beheaded.

"Whether I live or whether I die, does not matter. But I cannot stop speaking about sin, because sin hurts God. And God is more important than any king."

John put his huge head close to the bars and spoke straight to the King who stood outside.

"And Herod—a great change is shaking the world even now. You should be ready. Now is the time to repent from sin. For the Messiah has come, the Savior. And I am sent to announce Him," said John.

Herod laughed, and his double chins shook.

"For a fairy tale like that you would die?" asked the King. "Don't be a fool, John." John the Baptist thought for a moment. "I am sure that He is God. But—will you let me send my friends to ask Him? Then I will know what to do."

With the King's permission, John sent two men to Jesus in Galilee, to ask the most important question in John's life.

They said to Jesus: "Are you He that is come? Or must we look for another?"

Jesus said to them: "Go tell

John what you have heard and seen. The blind see. The lame walk. Those who are dead come back to life. And the gospel is preached to the poor!"

Two nights later Herod came to the dungeon. "Well, Baptist," he said, "have your friends returned?"

"Yes, Majesty. I must serve God, and do battle against sin. For Jesus—He is God come to earth."

Herod hurried angrily away. He could not look into those good clear eyes a moment longer, for all he saw in them was his own wickedness.

That same night, as it happened, a dinner party was being held in the palace. Near the end of the evening, as a special entertainment, Salome, daughter of Queen Herodias, danced for the guests.

She was young and beautiful, and when she danced she seemed to weave a spell over all who watched her pale bare feet, her drifting veils and robe.

When she finished, King Herod called her to him.

"Whatever you ask, Salome, I will give it to you," he said, loud enough for the whole table to hear, "though it be half my kingdom!"

Salome ran to her mother, the Queen, who waited in her room.

"Mother,—what shall I ask for?"

Hatred burned in Herodias' eyes. "If you can have anything," she said, "ask for the head of John the Baptist! That man must die now."

Salome ran back to the King.

Herod stared at her in horror, but he was afraid to say no.

"Fetch the executioner," he said. "Have him bring us here now the head of John called the Baptist."

The executioner hurried to the prison, and woke John.

"Kneel—and lay your head on that block of wood!"

John knelt, and with one swing of an axe, the executioner cut off his head. He carried the head on a golden dish to Herod.

John's friends rode night and day till they reached Capernaum, and told the sad news to Jesus.

Alone through the night, Jesus went into the mountains, high over the Sea of Galilee to pray. John had been sent by God to prepare the way for Jesus. Now John's time was over. And Jesus must start His own work, the work of saving a sinful world.

Matter of Surpluses

Seward, Neb.
 To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In reply to Elmer C. Holm's letter—who is of the opinion that 100,000 farm families should be persuaded to leave the farm yearly to correct the surplus problem:

He states our farm program of recent years is one of trying to keep all farmers satisfied. I suspect he approves of keeping labor satisfied with the legislation that raised the minimum wage to one dollar an hour, extended social security and survivors benefits to all but a few. The U. S. has the highest wage standards for their labor by far of any country in the world and all union contracts include health and retirement benefits for the laborer and his family. Subsidies paid to these businesses add up to twice those paid to agriculture — paid with the taxpayers' money, which also pays to keep an ever-normal granary. I am all for these benefits for labor — I just can't understand the thinking that figures a farmer is not entitled to his share of such an economy, too.

The latest figures I can get on this "unmanageable surplus" Mr. Holm says is loaded onto the taxpayer are these. The corn we have on hand would carry the nation 13 months, 19 days. The wheat — 13 months, 11 days. Cotton — 13 months, 10 days. Rice — 7 months, 25 days. Butter — 1 month, 14 days. Rye — 7 months, 25 days. Barley — 4 months, 14 days. Oats — 24 days. Soybeans — 29 days.

Rep. Chase thinks at least this much is a necessary reserve for future needs or in the event of a nuclear or chemical war attack which might contaminate or lay waste vast areas of our food-producing land. Only food can sustain life. I think a thoughtful taxpayer would welcome this surplus. I have long been of the opinion that our "surplus" has been a word used by our present administration to cover up their do-nothing program for agriculture.

If Mr. Holm gets 100,000 farm families to leave the farm yearly, what is going to happen to the land they leave? It would be taken up by land investment companies — then there would be a farm union—and they would command a return for farm produce covering their operating costs and a guaranteed profit.

One farm survey says more farmers are now looking for town jobs than there are jobs available. Profitless farming inevitably leads before long to profitless business and jobless workers. Mr. Holm fails to consider the jobless that would be created if 100,000 families leave 100,000 farms yearly. Mr. Holm might better suggest that the U. S. quit reclaiming millions of acres for irrigation to supply a nation it claims is overburdened with farm products. It might better use some of the surplus to feed our starving Indians, the aged and needy. It might quit importing pork, beef and wheat, to add to the surplus and export some to countries willing to take it, such as Switzerland.

The U. S. could let the farmer have his share of the commercial markets at home where grain could be used for alcohol instead of importing blackstrap molasses. Sen. Carl Curtis tells us that if the autos in the U. S. were required to use only 10 per cent alcohol blended with gasoline, it would consume some 1,400,000,000 bushels of grain yearly, far more than our burdensome yearly grain surplus. Agriculture's share of this market would not take any existing market away from any other source in this country. Other countries have worked this program with success. This would be far less costly than our present methods of dealing with surpluses, giving a stability to both agriculture and business.

Nixon Buildup Is Work Of Chotiner

WASHINGTON — Murray Chotiner, Vice President Richard M. Nixon's campaign manager and political mentor who is putting the Nixon imprint on GOP campaign schools all over the country, has a kind of press agent in Governor Goodwin J. Knight, of California.

Knight feuds gustily with both men and directs his callers to pay attention to Chotiner if they wish to understand Nixon. Knight complains that you can't make a deal which will stick with either one.

Chotiner, when seen in his law offices in Los Angeles, doesn't talk back much. The principal impression he gives is one of enormous self-confidence which finds no need to explain or explain. There are grounds for it, too—in 10 years in politics, his protégé is the vice president, one heartbeat removed from the presidency.

The Chotiner system of building up a star and selling him directly with every aid and gimmick of mass communications is largely independent of party. The unique California system of cross-filing by candidates for office make the star system possible, indeed almost mandatory. It's Chotiner's methods which are different.

Thus Chotiner can afford to ignore the governor. Other Nixon supporters indulge themselves in crude boasts that in the end "Goody will come around and beg to be allowed to nominate Dick." This is not Chotiner's style.

He punctiliously explained that nothing, really nothing, can or should be done for Nixon until the President made his own decision, which now has been made. Then, if necessary, he thought, much might be done rather quickly.

Chotiner did not mention his educational work for the GOP about which the National Committee is so cheerful. The campaign should show whether his system can be made to work nationally.

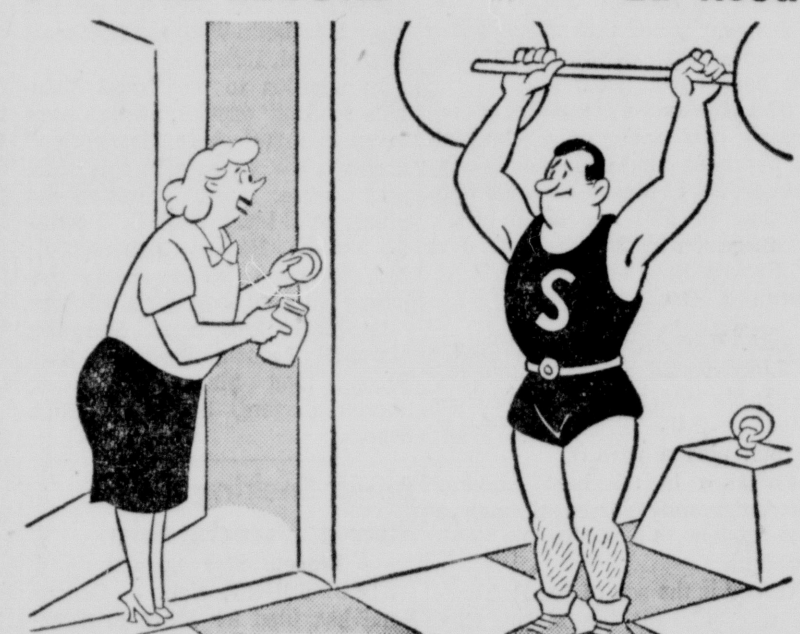

It has had one such test—the famous telecast in which the vice president defended his expense fund and praised good Republican cloth coats. That succeeded with Mr. Eisenhower and apparently the majority of the voters, even though it implanted doubts about Nixon which have not faded in many quarters, not all of them Democratic.

The vice president was not so successful when he tried out his highly personalized, good image versus bad image style of campaigning in the Mountain States and Northwest in 1954. Murray J. C. O'Mahoney, J. E. Murray and Richard L. Neuberger won, giving the Democrats narrow control of the Senate. John Carroll, of Colorado, lost.

Celebrate A Rare Occasion

Janet Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Schmidt of 1950 Jefferson, was really 12 years old Wednesday. But she was really only three. That is, she was a leap year baby and has only been able to celebrate on Feb. 29th three times. Anyway, she had a birthday party. Helping her make a wish on the candles are friends at the party.

8 Die In Ambush

R A B A T, French Morocco — A band of about 300 rebels ambushed a convoy of Foreign Legionnaires, killing eight of them and wounding 11.

The battle was in the mountainous area south of Taza in north-eastern Morocco, along a road which runs through steep gorges.

Planes were called out to help the legionnaires and the French said a number of rebels were killed, but no exact figure was given. The rebels were reported to be wearing uniforms and armed with automatic weapons.

College Draft Deferment

Forms Due Monday

Applications by college students for the spring selective service college qualification tests must be postmarked not later than midnight Monday, Maj. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, state draft director, warned Friday.

The tests help determine whether the registrant should receive a draft deferment to continue his college studies.

Application forms are available from local selective service board offices.

Estes Blames Ike Administration For 'One Of Darkest Periods In U.S. Governmental History'

... Seeking N.H. March 13 Votes

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Denouncing the Republican party's domestic and foreign program as failures, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said Friday night the Eisenhower administration is responsible for "one of the darkest periods of American governmental history."

"With its methods of propaganda, procrastination and postponement, it has waited until its final year in office, and under the pressure of the coming election, before pretending to fulfill its campaign promises," Kefauver said.

In an address to a Dartmouth College political affairs conference, the tall Tennesseean said "disorder and irresponsibility" would "wreck the federal government" if the GOP wins next November.

Language Strong

It was the strongest language yet used by the senator in New Hampshire, where he is campaigning for victory March 13 in the first presidential primary of 1956.

Kefauver climaxed a day of hand-shaking factory visits and receptions in several cities with a blistering attack on the GOP record.

He said the Eisenhower administration has failed the farmer—"Never did an administration deliver so little once it was safely in the White House."

He said the administration is "bragging" about the prospect for a balanced budget—"One reason the budget is being balanced is that we have sacrificed leadership in air power to the Soviet Union."

Uneasy Peace

Referring to the "peace and prosperity" theme of the GOP, he said, "The peace is uneasy and so is the prosperity."

He criticized the administration's foreign policy, adding that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "... is the most partisan secretary of state in our history and I regret to say that he is not above playing politics with the peace and security of our nation and the free world."

The Eisenhower administration, said Kefauver, "has prepared not a single prop for our economy in case the time comes when we can safely turn swords into plowshares. He charged that the administration obviously does not believe in the possibility of peace. It has utterly failed to prepare for it."

Free Salk Shots Must Be Requested

State Health Director Earl A. Rogers said Friday Nebraska's doctors must file requests for Salk anti-polio vaccine they wish to obtain for vaccinating persons unable to pay for the vaccine.

He said requests for more than 76,000 doses of vaccine now on file cannot be honored since most of the vaccine coming into the state hereafter will move through commercial channels.

The State Polio Advisory Committee Wednesday approved a plan recommended by the Nebraska State Medical Association's House of Delegates under which 90 per cent of the vaccine coming into Nebraska from now on would be distributed commercially. The other 10 per cent, for persons unable to pay, would be distributed through the State Health Department, which formerly distributed all the federally allocated vaccine.

Dr. Rogers said doctors with patients unable to pay for their vaccine should file requests which will be met out of the 10 per cent set aside for that purpose.

He said more than 1,500 doses for use in such cases will arrive within 10 days. It will be part of a shipment of 15,000 doses, 90 per cent of which will be distributed commercially.

Weather Ahead

Extended forecast for Nebraska:

Temperatures will average 5 to 10 degrees above normal. Normal maximums 44 east to 47 west; normal minimums 19 west to 21 east. Mild through Sunday and Monday, turning colder Tuesday and Wednesday. No precipitation of consequence.

SMOKED OUT

Police use a tear gas bomb to force prisoner Sherill Moore, 27, out of a city court cell in New Haven, Conn. after he threatened for two hours to slash his wrist with a razor blade. Police Lt. John McCarthy, with outstretched arms, is ready to seize the prisoner as he emerges from the gas cloud. (AP Wire-photo)

COURT CUTS PROPERTY VALUATION IN TAX SUIT

The Lancaster District Court has reduced the valuation of a 14th and Q business property by $1,990 for 1954 and 1955, in the first equalization appeal suit heard since the county-wide scientific reappraisal.

Judge Harry Spencer's ruling in the suit brought by Homer V. Martin of 1735 So. 35th, against the Lancaster County Board of Equalization reduced the 1954 tax on the property by $24.09.

The property involved was four lots fronting 200 feet on Q and 142 feet on 14th. The equalization board had valued the land at $44,630 and improvement at $17,065.

The defendant board agreed that the improvements' value should be reduced $990 for the reason that certain tanks and pumps were not owned by Martin, but by the Skelly Oil Co., and had been assessed twice.

The court ordered a $1,000 reduction on the land value to equalize its value with surrounding property.

The court-ordered reductions for 1954 and 1955 set the total value of land and improvements at $76,770, or the assessed value of $38,385.

Airman Fined For Indecent Exposure

Herman H. Daniels, 20-year-old Mississippi airman stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base, was fined $100 in Lancaster County Court on a charge of indecent exposure.

Daniels pleaded guilty to a charge involving a March 1 incident near Oak Lake. The court was informed the defendant exposed himself before two 18-year-old girls and had made indecent suggestions to them.

Daniels was arrested by the Nebraska Safety Patrol in connection with the incident after he had been chased by another car.

Authorities said Daniels is facing discharge from the Air Force.

Rhee Fails

SEOUL (Saturday) (INS) — President Syngman Rhee failed to win the South Korean National Assembly's permission to arrest a member of the Parliament in connection with the assassination of the ROK counterspy chief, Lt. Gen. Kim Chang Young. Rhee's request for such permission was debated for hours behind closed doors but its supporters could not muster enough votes to approve the proposed arrest of assemblyman To Jin Hi. Korean law forbids the arrest of an assemblyman without parliamentary permission.

$4 Million Sewer Improvement Program Recommended For City

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

A $4 million sanitary sewer improvement program for Lincoln, to be financed with revenue bonds, has been recommended by Black & Veatch, consulting engineers, Kansas City, Mo.

The Black & Veatch report was made to Sanitary District 1. It proposes establishment of a sanitary sewer service charge, like other utility rates to pay off the bonds and cover operation and maintenance of the sewer system.

The report noted that no decision has yet been made between city and District officials as to which governmental sub-division should accept responsibility for the sewer system.

It is important, the report stated, that the sewer operations be consolidated under one head. Should a utilities district be formed for water and electricity in Lincoln, the report said, the sewer program should be placed in that district.

Aimed At 1980

Aimed at a 1980 city population of 160,000, the program would be amortized over a 30 year period.

The largest single part of the program is $1,708,000 in costs for additional sewer lines in the S & I Creek-Beals Slough drainage area.

Another $634,000 would be spent on sewer in the Antelope Creek watershed.

The Dead Man's Run area would have a $553,000 expansion of its sewer lines.

The report calls for $391,000 to be spent on a sewer system and pumping station to carry sewage from west Havelock around and from the northwest and then to the disposal plant at 22nd and Thersa.

Pumps Needed

Similarly, pumps would be installed on lines to feed the West A and West P sewage into the gravity flow sewer leading to the disposal plant from the Salt-B & A area.

To correct the flooding of basements from sewer backups in the 33rd and A area, a new 15-inch sewer is recommended in A from 38th to 33rd and in 33rd from A to Normal Blvd.

The West A, West P and 33rd and A improvements have a combined estimated cost of $122,000.

Another $500,000 expenditure is recommended for improvements of the disposal plant where a $750,000 expansion has just recently been completed. This would provide additional pumps and aeration, settling and sludge digestion tanks.

Stevens Creek Area

While not a part of the $4 million program, the report noted that expansion of the city is rapidly approaching the Stevens Creek area to the east. When this area is developed, the report said, another disposal plant will have to be constructed near the mouth of Stevens Creek.

Previous estimates of needed improvements in the sewer system have been around $2 million. None of these, however, have been as extensive as the Black & Veatch report.

The possibility has been mentioned of a proposed $1.5 million

DANCE ON DESPITE NU WARNING

Responsible student sources at the University of Nebraska Friday said plans for an off-campus dance on March 9 will go ahead despite a warning to students by University officials to have nothing to do with the affair.

Sponsor of the dance, tickets for which reportedly were nearly sold out, is the "Mallard Club," an anonymous organization of fraternity men.

In a letter published in The Nebraskan, campus newspaper, the University's Division of Student Affairs advised fraternity and sorority presidents that support or attendance by their groups might "forfeit their right to remain, acceptable members of the University community."

"The holding of such a party is in violation of University rules and regulations," the letter continued, "because it is to be sponsored by an organization not approved by the University and it is to be held without conformity to the usual social rules."

"Under these circumstances the support of this event by the fraternity and sorority system of individual houses is an indication of bad faith. In addition the University regards approval of such events calculated subterfuge reflecting on the good name of the system," it added.

March 9 had been the date set aside for the annual Interfraternity Council Ball. The ball was canceled this year, however, after the Division of Student Affairs ordered that it be held on the campus. The Interfraternity Council has disclaimed any connection with the Mallard Club or its planned dance.

Swings In Action Monday

... On Rooming Houses

A battery of three city inspectors will begin Monday an extensive inspection tour of all city rooming houses, seeking those first which are suspected to be either fire, health or safety hazards.

The inspectors will cover each house together to bring about the quickest action with the least disturbance of occupants and landlords.

Some 13 to 15 dwellings, known from past inspections to be in a questionable state, will be visited first.

Those found to be in an intolerable condition will be closed immediately by emergency order, according to Mayor Clark Jeary. Where more time would do no harm, landlords will be given time to bring their places up to proper standards.

The crackdown on rooming houses followed close on the heels of a fire in the quarters at 1034 P. A man was burned in the fire and the house ordered closed immediately.

Making the inspections will be Fire Inspector Harold Martin, Sanitation Director L. A. Sanger and Building Inspector Ed Vorhees.

Details of the inspection program were worked out and the Monday date set at a special meeting of Mayor Clark Jeary with other officials involved.

Fire Sweeps Part Of Cozad School; Arson Suspected

COZAD, Neb. (AP) — Fire swept the industrial section of the Cozad High School layout Thursday night with damage that Supt. L. L. Patterson said would "run into many thousands of dollars."

School Board President Emil Barta said damage was covered by insurance.

The industrial arts section is separate from the main school building.

Officials said they suspected the fire was deliberately set and immediately asked the State Fire Marshall at Lincoln to investigate.

They based their suspicions on a report from police officer Ervane Paulson, one of the first to reach the scene after two boys turned in the alarm near midnight, that he found the glass in a front door knocked out.

The fire started in the office of instructor Paul Peterson and spread rapidly, volunteer fire department members said. The blaze put an end to a late city council meeting, several council members

First Community Living School Graduates 23

Completion certificates were awarded Friday night to 23 students of the University of Nebraska's first School for Community Living.

The youths came from throughout the state to attend the four-week course, designed to help them more fully understand their communities, to assist them in developing their leadership capacities so that they may contribute more abundantly to the life of their communities, and to broaden their cultural horizons.

Dr. Otto Hoiberg, director of the school, said, "all indications are that the young have been very helpful to the course in terms of the purposes for which it was intended."

Dr. Knute O. Broady, director of the University's extension division, presented the certificates at a dinner. Mrs. Hazel M. Lyne of Lincoln received a certificate as a participating observer.

Dr. Hoiberg said the school provided ideas for strengthening a similar program planned next year. The school was made possible by a grant from the Woods Charitable Fund through the University Foundation.

Receiving certificates were: Duane Barth, Uika; Wayne E. Bony, Burwell; Donald L. Dyson, Lyons; Fritz A. Emrich, Fairfield; Bonnie J. Hartman, Cozad; Wilbur R. Heil, Rockville; Bernard D. ## Homesick Coed Given Probation For $80 Forgery

Yvonne Kidd, 19-year-old student, Friday was placed on two years probation by the Lancaster District Court for forgery.

Miss Kidd, a university student from Kansas City, Mo., who had lived at 1520 R, pleaded guilty to forging an $80 check Feb. 22 on an Omaha bank.

The court was informed the defendant had forged the check after running up $86 in telephone calls to her parents because she was "homesick."

Miss Kidd dropped out of school and left for home with her parents, University of Nebraska officials said.

The wedding is planned for early summer.

Miss Mathiesen will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Miss Mathiesen also is a member of Dean F. E. Henzlik's committee and also is a past president of Orchesis.

Lt. Zinnecker is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He now is stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

Wedding On Friday

MRS. WILLIAM R. MACDONALD

Lighted candles, caught with greenery, marked the processional aisle of the First Methodist Church where the wedding of Miss Bonnie Lu Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen E. Taylor, and William Robert MacDonald, son of Mrs. W. R. Fifer of Redwood City, Calif., took place on Friday evening, March 2. The 8 o'clock service was solemnized by Dr. Carl M. Davidson before a chancel background of pink and white gladioli. Miss Marjorie Smith, organist, played the wedding music and also accompanied the vocal soloist, Miss Marilyn Todd.

The attendants, including Mrs. Ronald Butler, sister-in-law of the bride and the matron of honor; Mrs. Richard Nelson, the bridesmaid; and bridesmaids Miss Sarah Luehr and Miss Elizabeth Pearce, appeared in floor-length frocks of chiffon over taffeta in the Bermuda Rose tone. The brief-sleeved bodices, designed with low, rounded necklines patterned with opalescent beading, narrowed to pointed waists above the wide skirts. Their abbreviated veils, reflecting the tone of their costumes, were held in place with bandeaux of chiffon touched with opalescent trim. Each carried a heart-shaped bouquet of rose and white carnations. The candles were lighted by Miss Rita Lehr and Miss Carolyn Lawritson.

Richard Bozarth of Peoria, Ill., served Mr. MacDonald as best man, and seating the guests were Donald L. Wederquist of Randolph, Ia.; James S. Force of Grassflat, Pa.; and Ronald K. Peters of Freeport, Ill.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The long-sleeved lace-over-satin bodice had a deeply rounded neckline contoured with an applique of seed pearls and the extremely bouffant skirt of tulle extended into a chapel train. Her tiered veil of illusion was held to the head with a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a white prayer-book ornamented with a cluster of red roses.

After a reception, held in the church parlors, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Colorado Springs. For traveling Mrs. MacDonald wore a black and white tweed suit, with green accessories. Mr. MacDonald and his bride will reside in Lincoln until June when they will go to Redwood City to make their home.

Mrs. MacDonald attended Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Phi Mu sorority.

Town Talk

With A Flair And A Flourish

EVERYONE appears to be in a gay mood, socially speaking—that is—the calendar gives adequate proof that activity is not at a standstill—and our little red book tells us that it is high on to the time of homecoming for some of our travelers to Africa, Spain and far away places—

Had a glimpse of the Arnett Folsoms the other day—Mrs. Folsom very chic, as usual—and Mr. Folsom very chipper—also as usual—after a brief stay in New York City and Atlantic City.

TODAY will bring Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Delchamps and their young son, Oliver, to Lincoln for a very brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reynolds. Mr. and Mrs. Delchamps and their son, who now call Kansas City home, are former residents of Mrs. Reynolds's home town—Mobile, Ala.

TONIGHT is party night for the members of the Revelers Club who are having a masquerade dinner dance at Hotel Cornhusker. Guests at the affair will include Mr. and Mrs. Andy Andros, Mr. and Mrs. A. James Ebel, Mr. and Mrs. William Edgecombe, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hinds and Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Wendt.

THE 100 Club has chosen a fascinating theme for its final dinner dance of the season on March 17. St. Patrick's day has been ignored completely, and the party will feature "Saturday Night on a Satellite." Planning the party is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. George Eager, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. George Unthank, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Coy, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Forke, Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. John Safford and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dort.

BUT the current week-end is not without its terpsichorean efforts—in fact the members of the Terpsichorean Club will be dining and dancing this evening at Hotel Lincoln. A St. Patrick's motif will be introduced in all of the details according to the committee which includes Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Mathers and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Parrish. Guests at the dinner dance will be Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Overton and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Koolen.

MEMO for Delta Upsilon — a new legacy arrived on Thursday, March 1, at Bryan Memorial Hospital. The young man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pauley and his mother is the former Phyllis Thomsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thomsen, and Chi Omega at Nebraska. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. L. H. Pauley.

It's all very easy to furnish your home beautifully these days (that is if you can pay the price), but to avoid that "picture-in-a-book" appearance and to make your home reflect your own personality takes imagination, creative ability and, most often, hard work.

To begin another in our series of picture-stories on how our Lincoln neighbors meet the challenge with talent and do-it-yourself courage, we have chosen to feature a five-foot coffee table inspired by marble store-fronts in Mexico City.

The coffee table, in reality two low tables which can alternate as end tables, belongs to Mr.

and Mrs. Carl H. Rohman and is simply fashioned of polished slabs of green onyx set in black ebony. To cut corners on a long story—Mr. and Mrs. Rohman, on their honeymoon trip to Mexico, tracked down the marble with the skeptical assistance of a taxi driver who patiently interpreted Mexican meters and centimeters into American inches and feet.

To design the table was simple (the Rohmans say) and the result is an adaptable, custom-made table sturdy enough to hold half a dozen adults—or two active children.

Not pictured is the Rohman's

dining room table of Brazilian rosewood with a top of pebbled, red Italian marble which no steaming hot dish can mar.

Republican Club To Meet

The Republican Business Women's Club will hold a dinner-meeting Monday evening, March 12, at the YWCA at which time Mrs. Hazel Abel will report to the members on the recent conference of the National Federation of Republican Women held at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Abel also will discuss the activity of the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial commission, of which she is a member, and a program of music will be given by Mrs. Myrna Young.

Reservations for the dinner must be made with Mrs. George C. Krause.

The Rule Of Ten

By JOHN POWERS

What is considered a fashionable figure may change from time to time, but there is always what we call a Powers "ideal." Horrible as it is, women in the Elizabethan period pulled in their corsets in an attempt to have a 13-inch waistline. We went to the other extreme in the twenties when the flappers of the Charleston era had no visible curves at all.

When a model comes to our school and inquires what the ideal figure is, we stress that it is the natural one with curves nicely controlled. We tell them that its measurements, if ideal, should tally with the "Rule of Ten," that you have heard me speak of many times.

To follow the rule of ten for an average figure, the bust and hips should measure the same and the waist ten inches smaller. For example, a model who is 5'6" tall should have a 34" bust; 24" waist and 34" hips. Although this is the basis for ideal measurements, many good figures verge on what we might call rules of eleven, with an 11-inch difference between the waist and bust-hip measurements.

★ Mrs. Eva Bearing of San Antonio, Tex., is spending several months with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Bertram.

★ Announcement has been made of the birth of a daughter, Kim Cindy, to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buettgenbach on Feb. 3. Kim Cindy's older sister, Lynn Ellen, has been the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown on Eastborough Lane, while the new member of the family was getting settled in her nursery.

★ Mr. and Mrs. William Bowers and their three sons, Billy, Johnny and Mark returned earlier this week from Omaha where they spent a brief time as the guests of Mr. Bowers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bowers.

April Brides-Elect Honored

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Barbara Kay Schmoker who will become the bride of Cadet Delane E. Welsch, USN, in April.

The bride-to-be has revealed that the wedding will take place at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, and preceding the ceremony, the candles will be lighted by Miss Ruth Vollmer and Miss Margaret Timm, cousin of the bride-elect.

For her matron of honor, Miss Schmoker has chosen Mrs. Barry Boldberg, and her maid of honor will be Miss Joyce Sporn.

Miss Kay Erickson will be the bridesmaid, and Mr. Welsch's sister, Miss Linda Welsch, will be the junior bridesmaid.

Paul Stokely will serve as best man, and seating the guests will be Mr. Welsch's brother, Keith Welsch, and Miss Schmoker's brother, Dick Schmoker.

The bride-elect will be the guest of honor Saturday afternoon at a dessert luncheon to be held at the University Club. Hostesses for the luncheon and one-gift shower will be Miss Kay Erickson and Miss Ruth Vollmer who have invited 14 guests for the afternoon.

On Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Schmoker will be honored at a miscellaneous shower when Mrs. Richard Loos and Mrs. Laura Delfs will entertain at the home of Mrs. Delfs. The 25 guests will spend the evening hours informally.

Also an April bride-to-be is Miss Pamela Anne Ahl whose marriage to Bud Yant of Crete will be an event of Saturday evening, April 7.

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Ahl, Miss Joyce Wall and Miss Carol Powell will be co-hostesses Saturday evening at the home of Miss Wall where the group of guests will present a miscellaneous shower to the honoree.

The bride-elect's aunts, Mrs. George Axe and Mrs. John Ak-sentowitz, entertained recently for their niece at a dessert supper and linen shower held at the home of Mrs. Axe, and also included among recent courtesies for Miss Ahl was the kitchen shower for which Mrs. W. H. Yant of Crete was hostess honoring her son's fiancée.

Miss Ahl has announced that her maid of honor will be Miss Shirley Svoboda, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Bonnie Walker and Miss Carol Powell. Miss Duell Ahl will attend her sister as flower girl, and the ring-bearer will be Stephen Ahl, brother of the bride-to-be.

Preceding the ceremony, the candles will be lighted by Miss Ahl's cousins, John Axe and Miss George Kay Axe.

Prober Challenges HST Claim On Commie Menace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Scherer (R-Ohio) asked former President Truman whether "you do not feel the time has come for you to change your position" on the Communist menace inside the United States.

Scherer, a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, made public a letter he wrote to Truman March 1. In it he referred to just-concluded committee hearings and to what he termed past Truman "statements that there were no Communists in government."

The House committee heard testimony that Communists were employed on the staff of the Senate Commerce Committee, headed by former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont.), and on the staff of a Commerce subcommittee investigating railroad finances, headed by then-Sen. Truman in the 1930s.

There was also testimony of Communists within the National Labor Relations Board through about the mid-40s.

Scherer's letter to Truman said: "You will recall that you referred to the Hiss case, which originated in the Committee on Un-American Activities, as a 'red herring.' At another time you said that, 'There are not enough Communists in the United States to put in your eye.'"

"Now it is not my purpose to suggest or even hint that you had any knowledge of the Communist connections or activities of persons on the staff of your Senate subcommittee or in the National Labor Relations Board."

"I am writing you at this time merely to call to your attention that you were mistaken about the seriousness and extent of the infiltration of the Communist conspiracy into the agencies of the federal government. . . ."

"In view of the record and because of the influence you bear, I would be particularly interested in knowing if you do not feel the time has come for you to change your position and so advise the American people in order that they may be alerted to the danger of Communist menace from within as well as from without."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the five rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Neider's Record Heave Meet Highlight

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star
KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Bill Neider of the University of Kansas became the greatest shotputter in collegiate history here Friday night as he stole the show in the opening session of the 28th annual Big Seven Indoor Track and Field Meet.
The big Jayhawk shattered Parry O'Brien's national intercollegiate record with a mighty toss of 59-9 1/2 on his second try in the shot put preliminaries.
He has three more chances Saturday night to sail over the 60-foot marker.
O'Brien, who only a few short days ago got off a heave of 61-5 1/2, had posted the previous mark of 59-2 1/2, in the 1953 Compton (Calif.) Relay.
In becoming the top collegiate putter and the No. 2 man in the world Neider not only eclipsed the outdoor mark (O'Brien's) but kayoed the indoor record, 58-5 1/2 set by himself last month in a dual with Oklahoma at Lawrence, and smashed his own Big Seven record, 53-10 1/2 set here last year.
The 6-3 220-pound Kansan hit 59-1 1/2 on his first toss and followed that with his record throw, a 58-3 1/3 and a 59-3, although he scratched on the latter. Thus he was over 59 feet three times during the course of the evening.
Earlier Fritz Hageboeck of Colorado, the defending high hurdle champion, equalled the meet record in the semifinals by skimming the barriers in :07.4.
Bud Gartiser (Missouri, 1948) Merwin Hodel (Colorado, 1950), and Don Bedker (Nebraska, 1952) are the co-record holders.
Oklahoma paced the qualifying for Saturday night's finals.
The Sooners got three in the 440, two in the high hurdles, one in the lows and the 880 and two in the shot put.
Kansas, the defending champion and figured to win its fifth straight title, wound up with seven qualifiers, two in the shot and five on the track.
But the Jayhawks' big strength—the distance races—won't be shown until tonight.
Missouri, a chief contender, also had seven qualifiers, all on the track. Then the field went like this:
Colorado six, Kansas State and Iowa State three each, and Nebraska two.
The Cornhuskers failed to land a man in the track finals via Friday's preliminaries, but two shotputters made the grade.
Kansas is still tagged the favorite, but either the Tigers or the Sooners could give the Jayhawks some trouble. Oklahoma picked up

Slate For Sport Fan Full Today

The old saying — "from soup to nuts" — hardly covers the variety of sports entertainment offered Cornhusker fans today and to-night.

The door is open at the University Coliseum to basketball, wrestling and swimming enthusiasts, with a touch of the continental—fencing—thrown in for free.

In addition, the Nebraska indoor track team is competing in the Big Seven indoor championships at Kansas City and the gymnastic squad is competing in the All-College Invitation at Boulder, Colo.

Coach Jerry Bush's basketball team pulls down the curtain on its home schedule at 8:05 p.m., hosting the Oklahoma Sooners.

The Huskers need a victory tonight to keep ahead of the last place Sooners in the Big Seven race. Despite a lack of personnel — the student manager sometimes sees action — Oklahoma boasts the second and third leading scorers in the Big Seven.

Center LeRoy Backer, a hook-shot stylist, is third with a 16.5 average, and Joe King, 6-6 forward, is second in the shooting race with a 17.8 game mark.

Four Nebraska cagers will be playing their last game in the Coliseum. Co-captains Whitey Buel and Chuck Smith and lettermen Norm Coufal and Bill Roy are seniors and will complete their collegiate court careers next week at Missouri Monday and Iowa State Thursday.

The Huskers whipped Oklahoma in an overtime tilt at Norman, Okla., earlier in the season.

Nebraska	Pos.	Oklahoma
Ekwall	F	King
Smith	F	Abbey
Smith	C	Bacher
Buel	G	Jones
Kubacki	G	Chaborn

The Husker swim team entertains Kansas State at 2 p.m. in the Coliseum pool.

Cornhusker wrestlers host Colorado at 9:45, after the basketball scrap. Rugged Arnold Morton leads the Nebraska matmen in season victories.

Nine Nebraska fencers will be in action against the Air Force Academy fencing team. The matches will be staged at 1 p.m. in the Coliseum.

In foils competition Dave Kistler of Lincoln, Doug Henry of Omaha and John Campbell of Lincoln will represent the Huskers.

Cy Harvey, Lincoln, Nathan Miller, St. Joseph, Mo., and Larry Bartlett of Austin, Tex., will compete for Nebraska in the epee.

Sabre event performers for Nebraska will be John Howe of Lincoln, Dave Renwick, Lincoln, and Wayne Buehrer of Lincoln.

'Baseball Comes First'—Kretlow

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — Lou Kretlow, last of the Kansas City A's to sign his 1956 contract, is burning over reports that he thinks more of golf than baseball.

Lou won the annual players tournament just before spring training, opened and agrees that he likes the links game but:

"I don't think more of golf than I do of baseball," said the 32-year-old righthander whom the Athletics purchased from Seattle. "I played two rounds all last summer. That report started because I got down in the 70s. But if I played golf and scored in the 90s, nobody would say anything about it. That's why it's unfair."

Lou, who was shipped to the Pacific Coast League after losing four and winning none for Baltimore last season, is optimistic.

"One thing sure," he said, "this has to be my year and I think it will. One thing I like about pitching for the Athletics is that they score runs for their pitchers. Then too, I'm sure I'll get a good chance and that's all I'm asking."

By RON SPEER
Star Staff Sports Member

Jim Heffelfinger, Lincoln High's stellar gymnast who won two events in the state meet last year, tilts the scales in favor of the Links in Saturday's All-City gym meet at Northeast.

The novice (reserve) meet will start at 10 a.m. The optional division will be staged at 2 p.m.

Link gym coach Phil Sprague has five seniors to count on for points in the optional meet. Heffelfinger will compete in high bar, tumbling, trampoline and parallel bars.

He is the returning state champion in the trampoline and high bar events.

Champ Slated For Weekend Pin Action

FREMONT — Alvin Brown of Kearney, last year's All-Events champion, will defend his title in the Nebraska State Bowling tournament at Fremont over the week end.

Other place winners from last year's meet slated for action over the week end include the Kearney Lincoln-Mercury team, which was second in the team event last year; Al Brown and Alfred Johnson of Kearney, second in the men's doubles a year ago; and F. Seyboldt and A. Selk of Cozad, who won the doubles handicap title last year.

Mike Donovan of Schuyler, who copped second in singles last year, will also roll this weekend.

A total of 58 teams are scheduled for week-end action. The doubles slate includes 144 entries, and 238 keggers have entered week-end singles play.

British Runners Enter Penn Relays

OXFORD, England — Four middle-distance runners will represent Oxford University in the Penn Relays at Philadelphia April 27-28. The runners making the trip are Ian Boyd, Derek Johnson, D. E. C. Gorrie and A. D. Gordon.

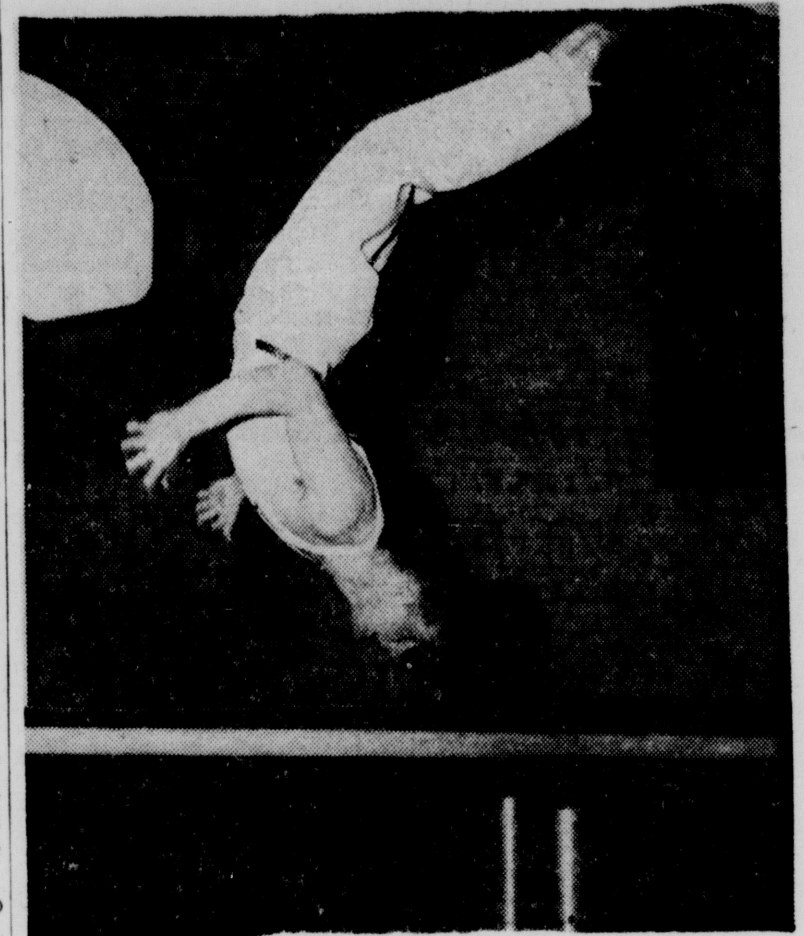

for the Links, with Bob Martin, Duane Ulrich and Jim Wertz competing in the other events.

Northeast's chances in the optional meet depend on the performances of Gene Barkley, junior gymnast who won the trampoline event in the novice division last year.

Other Rockets expected to score points for Coach Tom Kidd are Jimm McNeerney, Cliff Smith and Hans Burchardt. Burchardt is a sophomore who may compete in both the optional and novice division.

Southeast, building in its first year of the sport, will enter only the novice meet. Coach Art Hillman will rely on Virgil Kubert who may enter all six events and Roger Brandt to pick up most of the Knights' points.

Champion's Form

Jim Heffelfinger, Lincoln High's gymnastic star, displays the form which won him the state crown on the high bars last year. Heffelfinger will compete in the

All-City gym meet at Northeast today against Southeast and Northeast gymnasts. The Link senior is also the returning champion on the trampoline. (Star photo)

Curt Caught In Cross-Fire; Must Change Pitching Motion

By WHITNEY MARTIN

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Curt Simmons has been caught in his own cross fire, you might say, with his future as a major league pitcher in grave peril because of that tricky delivery.

"I don't know," he said with the uncertainty of a man given six different directions to get to a postoffice, "they tell me that my cross fire is responsible for my shoulder trouble, and maybe they're right."

"I've always had a jerky delivery. Herky-Jerky they called me. I'd come down hard on my right foot, but it would be pointed a little toward first base instead of straight forward. That way I threw across my body. I guess maybe that was wrong."

Whatever the cause of the ache in his left shoulder which got him in a mess of trouble last season, it is serious enough for the Philadelphia Phillies to refrain from offering him a contract until they find out if he can throw.

Consequently he came down here early to try to get that shoulder kink ironed out. Even threw for a month indoors during the winter. He still doesn't know how successful he will be.

"I'm throwing fairly hard, but not as hard as I'd like to throw," the nice-looking southpaw admits candidly. "Once in a while I'll see the ball move the way I want it to move. And my shoulder hasn't bothered me yet."

Most pitchers who develop arm or shoulder trouble can trace it back to one particular incident. They throw a ball and feel something snap, or get a sudden, stabbing pain.

Not so with Simmons. Like an innocent bystander who wound up with a black eye, he got his lame shoulder during the winter when he wasn't pitching.

He had beaten the champion New York Giants 2-1 in 11 innings in the final game of the 1954 season, and seemed set for a good year in 1955.

"Then when I came to camp last spring I couldn't throw," he says. "Only pitched three innings all spring. I took part in 25 games during the season, and had an 8-8 record, but around about the fifth or sixth inning I'd tire and my shoulder would start to ache."

His performance would seem to substantiate that, as he had only three complete games, and an earned run average of 4.92.

"They are trying to have me throw with my right foot pointed toward the plate now," he said hopefully. "It's hard to break a habit, but maybe I can develop that pattern so I won't have to think of it all the time."

Stocks Move On To Record High

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pounded ahead to a new record high Friday with a strong advance led by the oils.

It was the second day of booming prices since President Eisenhower said he would run again.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which had advanced to $140 at $181.60, 10 cents above the previous record.

The market last Sept. 23 capped a long advance with the average at $181.50, then plunged in a major reaction on the news of the President's election.

It recovered just as swiftly and on Dec. 5 and 6 again stood at $181.50.

After that the market worked lower until about two weeks ago. Then it started a brisk rise in the belief President Eisenhower would run again.

Enthusiasm based on political considerations that joined with those who bought on good business news and the market's response was a record high jump.

Friday's market started higher and kept right on going up to a strong close, with gains in the forefront both Thursday and Friday.

Railroads also were strong. After the close, the Interstate Commerce Commission gave the nation's carriers a general 6 per cent freight rate increase.

Going up with these two divisions were steel, non-ferrous metals, chemicals and many other individual stocks.

Motors and aircrafts were brushed aside by buyers and closed mostly unchanged to lower.

Price increases ran $1 to $3 in many instances, and some kinds extended to $5. With the A.P. average of 60 stocks to $140 at $181.60, the industrial component was ahead $1.60 at a new high of $208.00.

Consolidated gains of $1.80 in utilities were up $1.80 at $18.00 and utilities were up $1.80 at $18.00 and utilities were up $1.80 at $18.00.

Volume expanded on the rise and came to 2,860,000 shares, compared with 2,410,000 Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange was higher on volume of 1,070,000 shares, compared with 960,000 Thursday.

O. J. McGinley Faces Kansas Extradition

Otto J. McGinley Sr., 51-year-old Lincoln man under prosecution here on gambling charges, now faces possible extradition to Kansas on a no-account check charge.

A governor's warrant, signed by Kansas Gov. Fred Hall and Nebraska Gov. Victor Anderson, has been issued to extradite McGinley to Wichita, Kan., on a charge of issuing a $33.65 no-account check on the First National Bank of Omaha.

Dep. Marshal Thomas J. Craig of Wichita, who is in Lincoln with the warrant, said he understood that McGinley would appear Saturday morning at the Court-house to answer the warrant.

McGinley is now out on bond awaiting trial in Lancaster County Court on a charge of being a common gambler.

He has pleaded innocent to that charge of Feb. 27 and is appealing a Sept. 3 conviction on another gambling complaint. He has posted a $500 bond in both cases.

The second gambling charge was filed after county lawmen seized alleged horse betting supplies in a raid on McGinley's home at 1416 P.
